Course Schedule – Fall 2022 Distance Learning

Important Information to read carefully:

1. This course is designed in online (distance learning) asynchronous format. I am NOT supposed to be teaching remotely at all.
2. To minimize email communications and confusions, I will be available via Brightspace's Bongo on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8 pm. The objective this meeting is to explain the lab and its requirements (even though, lab's descriptions are fully explained and self-explanatory).
3. New lab will be opened on Tuesdays and Thursdays with the effect from October 4, 2022. You will find a tentative schedule of all the labs and its dates in the table below in this document.
4. Labs opened on Tuesdays will be due after 2 days on Thursdays.
5. Labs opened on Thursdays will be due after two days on Saturdays.
6. How to submit labs: You have two options to submit labs as explained below. You need to choose one of these two options for lab submission.
   a. Option 1: You can run the program in virtual classroom meeting by sharing your screen. NO need to submit the lab's code. This way, you have opportunity to receive interactive feedback.
   b. Option 2: You can submit your java file and screen capture of your result into the Brightspace's dropbox.
7. You can access Virtual classroom through Brightspace (click communication tab and then select virtual Classroom).
8. It is NOT required to attend the virtual classroom meeting.
9. In order to receive help with respect to the programming for lab, I encourage you highly to attend the virtual classroom meeting on Tuesdays and Thursdays.
10. It can not be explained via email.
